WHITMAN'S PLANS MAY JOLT BARNES

Albany Leader Must Yield in Assembly Leadership Contest.

GOVERNOR-ELECT FAVORS SWEET

Lieutenant Colonel Stotesbury May Be Next Adjutant General—Visits Prosecutor.

(By Telegraph to The Tribune.)
Lakewood, N. J., Nov. 7.—While there is no disposition on the part of Governor-elect Whitman to interfere in any way with the organization of the next Legislature, it is understood that he will look with friendliness on the retention of Thaddeus C. Sweet as Speaker of the Assembly and Senator Elton R. Brown, the present minority leader, as president pro tem. of the Senate.

If the new Governor lends his moral support to Speaker Sweet some of the politicians see an early rub between the Governor-elect and William Barnes, former Republican state chairman, and his friends in Albany. There is no doubt that Barnes would like to see Harold J. Hinman in Speaker Sweet's place.

It is believed, however, that Mr. Whitman will pursue an entirely independent course in the matter, unbiassed but frank in expressing his personal choice. However, it is surmised the new Governor will have his way.

Mr. Whitman spent a quiet day with his family at Laurel in the Pines where they are staying. He rested in his rooms or about the hotel most of the day. He had but one visitor, Lieutenant Colonel Louis W. Stotesbury, inspector general of the 1st Brigade of the national guard, spent some time with the Governor-elect. The report became rife as a result of their conference that Lieutenant Colonel Stotesbury would be the next adjutant general of the state. Mr. Whitman refused to discuss the nature of their talk.

All Lieutenant Colonel Stotesbury would say was that his talk with Mr. Whitman had been in regard to military matters. In army circles Colonel Stotesbury is considered one of the ablest men in the guard. He has been mentioned in other administrations as a possible adjutant general. The military appointments will be made not later than December 20 in order to give the new officials time to secure their uniforms for the inauguration ceremonies.

District Attorney Whitman said today that he had given very little thought to the appointments he will have to make. He asserted that he intended to rest for two weeks before

POLITICAL. POLITICAL.

READING AN OPEN LETTER

(Extract)

There has been circulated in this city an OPEN LETTER, addressed by the gentleman, Mr. Manuel Lardizabal, to the President of the Republic of Honduras.

There are in this letter opinions that are erroneous, and which I take pleasure in refuting, at some length, for my opinion is not only absolutely impartial and just, and not governed in any way by the present public administration of Honduras, but I am entirely removed from any matter which relates to the internal politics of that country, and am inspired only by the desire to do away with certain appreciations of a general character, which have been working to the impairment of the honor and dignity of my country.

The primary point of view relates to the fact that Dr. Francisco Bertrand has been proposed for the Presidency of the Republic during the period of 1916-1920; for it is well known that this gentleman occupies, at the present time, that distinguished office by reason of the death of General Manuel Bonilla, President elected for the given term.

The pacific and well ordered evolution which, as must be apparent to all, is being effected in Honduras, is due to the fact that Dr. Bertrand is absolutely free from all hatred and all schemes of vengeance, from personal or collective obligations, from avaricious business schemes fostered by the position which he occupies, and his mission of peace, concord and fraternity has led all citizens who have been absent from the country to return to their homes and to devote themselves with all diligence to their personal occupations, without any one receiving in any case (as far as I know) the slightest insult or the slightest attempt at vengeance.

Honduras proceeds ostentatiously towards an era of restitution, progress and advancement. He has come to understand in time that the banderilla and the political upheavals have been the cause of this backwardness in the march of world civilization; for this reason the honest and labor loving public no longer seeks any ambitious career, but offer the stable and enduring peace so that they may devote themselves extensively to the attainment of the lofty purposes of their own advancement. It is, therefore, not only the element composed of subaltern employees that desires that Dr. Bertrand should occupy the Presidency during the period already mentioned; it is the Honduras people as a whole, the independent element, the labor loving element, the conscientious element who has learned to admire the honesty, the good judgment, the faithful management of the public funds, and above all the conciliatory policy observed during the time—which by accident—he has been at the front of the destinies of the nation.

In order to sketch the present situation of Honduras, Mr. Lardizabal avails himself of an empty criticism without foundation, without reason, criticism which has no significance, which is at once removed and falls of its own weight.

That there are some errors to be corrected is quite natural. The same may be said of all the nations of the world and above all those countries which are in their true period of development.

In regard to the economical and financial weaknesses it goes without saying that neither Honduras nor any other country of the world can separate itself from the influence of the enormous catastrophe which threatens the whole of Europe. It cannot be denied that there are combatants wearing the mantle of public opinion living from the fruit of deceit and fraud. Unfortunately there will be such to-morrow and always, there, here, and everywhere. It is true that it is very disgraceful and greatly to be depreciated, but it is also very human. It is the patrimony not only of Honduras; and there is no known means of eliminating it, except perhaps when we all arrive at the period of perfection, and Mr. Lardizabal may be able to guess where and when this will happen.

It is said that our thoughtful youths are there reduced to corruption and servility—the youths of lofty visions, by bribes and degradations. It is beyond belief that the worthy youth of the country, the youth which carries on its breast the shield of honor, and in its brain a real power of thought; that youth, Mr. Lardizabal, is not to be purchased nor is he to be sold; neither there nor in any part of the world.

The doors of the natural wealth of Honduras are wide open so that all may enter and seek work honorably. Foreign capital has ample opportunity there for a magnificent business. Its natural endowments make it practically propitious for every source of cultivation, for every branch of industry; beautiful, delicious climates; and above all an undeniable hospitality. Persons from all the nations of the globe live there and are esteemed and appreciated, enjoying the really enviable existence. Nobody now thinks of revolution or "justifiable uprising." Every one devotes himself to work, and now that they are not led away by those siren songs from the mouths of fanatics or by those who dream of power, those who perhaps have been backed by strange forces, forces which at the proper time horribly and pitifully impoverish the poor nation. Happily those times have passed and the people of Honduras to-day have good lenses, Mr. Lardizabal, to distinguish the true from the false patriot. If Dr. Bertrand does not come up to their aspirations, or does not conform himself to their desires, you may be sure that Dr. Bertrand would not be placed in power, now or ever, neither with nor without force. There are few people, Mr. Lardizabal, like our own. Don't make a mistake; they are not an abject people; they are well aware of their acts and their proceedings, and you will see how they will arise and how they will assert their rights with the utmost persistence should more powerful nations attempt to invade their sacred rights. In the meantime, if you are really of Honduras, if you loyally and sincerely love your country, then work assiduously and constantly for the unity of the Honduras people, for its social and political development, for its greatness in every realm of human activity; but take care not to awaken and promote suspicion, distress which lead to nothing, which serve only to excite miserable and coward ambitions at home, to occasion pitiable disgrace abroad; all of which not only lacks consistency, as you well understand, but is disloyal and unpatriotic; above all, when to accomplish this the spirit of our country is sadly and falsely exhibited among foreign nations.

DR. SAMUEL LAINES.

T. R. ADDS TO WOE OF DAZED MOOSE

Colonel Not a 1916 Candidate—Party's Future an Enigma.

PERKINS STICKS; DAVENPORT COY

Hitchhiss Assets Results Show Progressives Hold Balance of Power in Nation.

What is the future of the Progressive party in this state and nation? The leaders of the party, from Colonel Roosevelt down the line, cannot answer that question. They refuse to talk about it. They want a chance to recover from the blow received on Election Day and an opportunity to study more complete returns than are now available.

Apparently the Progressive "big wig" is in the position of a man who has suddenly been hit over the head. He is dazed, and slowly turns around to see who hit him, and feels his head to find out how badly he has been damaged.

If the Progressives had the assurance that Colonel Roosevelt would lead them in the 1916 campaign, they might give them courage, but he has impressed upon them that he has no intention of running for President again, and that they must find another man to take up the banner of the Progressive party in the coming Presidential election. So far they have not been able to discover such a man.

All reports of the meeting of the executive committee of the national committee Friday agree that the leaders were unable to come to any conclusions as to just how serious they should consider the defections from the ranks as shown by the election returns at hand and as to what future, if any, there was for the organization.

"All we did yesterday," said George W. Perkins, chairman of the executive committee, "was to discuss the returns we had. We came to no conclusions, because the returns were so incomplete."

"What is the future of the Progressive party, in your opinion?" Mr. Perkins was asked.

"I don't think I ought to speak about it until we get all the returns," he said. "It would be inopportune to make any statement at this time. We have sent letters to every state chairman asking him to send in detailed reports. It will take several weeks to get these, but they will be available when we have our next meeting of the committee, which has been called for December 2 in Chicago."

Asked if he would remain as chairman of the executive committee, Mr. Perkins answered with some indication of annoyance that the question had been asked so many times he did not think it necessary to make any reply at this time. He did say that a story that he had sought his nomination as a district delegate to the constitutional convention on the Republican ticket in the Bronx and that his action should be had returned to the Republican party was ridiculous. He was regularly picked as the Progressive candidate, and did not know that he was to be named by the Republicans as a district delegate to the constitutional convention, until after the primaries. Then it was impossible to decline the Republican nomination, he said.

Just before taking an afternoon train for his home upstate yesterday Frederick M. Davenport, Progressive candidate for Governor in this state, was asked to make a statement about the future of the party and his connection with it. He replied that he would rather not talk about it at this time.

"As to the future of the Progressive party as an organization," said William H. Hotchkiss, who, yesterday, did not attend the Friday conference, "I think that any party that cast anywhere from 1,250,000 to 1,500,000 votes in the nation on Election Day is still a force to be reckoned with, and no party can say that it is a balance of power."

"As to the future of the Progressive movement," Mr. Hotchkiss continued, "I am as confident as ever that it will become the dominant factor in American politics, if not in two years, then in six. The Republican party may assume the leadership of the Progressive movement. If it does, it will win in 1916. It may be the Democratic party. If so, the Democrats will win. If neither party become Progressive, then the Progressive party, or some other party, will lead the movement. It was not fair to say that the result of the Tuesday election eliminated Colonel Roosevelt as a candidate for President in 1916, Mr. Hotchkiss said.

"You can't eliminate a man who has no intention of running," said Mr. Hotchkiss. "The Colonel told me within a week after the election of 1912 that he would not again be a candidate for President."

It is known that both the Colonel and Mr. Davenport are bitterly disappointed over the result of their campaigning in this state.

CRANE MAY CONTEST SEAT

Democrat Who Beat Him Member of School Board.

Assemblyman Sidney Clinton Crane, who was unexpectedly beaten for reelection in the 23d Assembly District, has been advised that he has a good chance for making a contest for the seat in the Assembly.

D. C. Oliver, the Democrat, who on the face of the returns got some 700 more votes than Crane, was appointed a member of the local school board of the 1st District by Borough President Ahearn for a term of five years, to begin January 1, 1916.

The state constitution provides that no person shall be eligible to be in the legislature who shall at any time within one hundred days prior to the time of his election have been "an officer under a city government."

As the local school boards are provided for in the city charter, Mr. Crane has been advised that the courts probably would hold that membership in them was a city office.

"I have not decided whether or not I shall make any contest," said Mr. Crane yesterday. "It has been suggested to me and I am considering the matter."

PLAN DINNER TO GRAMER Whitman and Three ex-Mayors Send Subscriptions.

Governor-elect Whitman, three former Mayors of New York and all the members of the Board of Estimate have sent in their subscriptions to a dinner that is being arranged in honor of William A. Gramer. For the benefit of those who do not know Mr. Gramer, it may be set down here that he is one of the oldest and most popular political reporters still in the game.

November 21 he will have served as a political reporter and at the City Hall for twenty-five years. The dinner will be held at the Hotel Savoy on that night in celebration of the occasion. Several hundred men prominent in all walks of life will be present to do honor to Gramer. Job E. Hedges will be toastmaster. Enough for that.

HICKS ASKS FOR RECOUNT

Contest for Congress Seat Likely To Be Long and Costly.

Colonel Not a 1916 Candidate—Party's Future an Enigma.

With Representative Lathrop Brown, of St. James, Long Island, claiming he was elected on Tuesday by six votes, and his opponent, Frederick C. Hicks, of Port Washington, claiming the election by four, a long and expensive legal fight is certain.

Hicks, the Republican nominee, yesterday instructed his attorney, Leander B. Faber, of Jamaica, to take steps to procure a recount of the ballots in the Supreme Court. This will involve the presence in court of all election officials of every election district in Nassau and Suffolk counties, and of districts in parts of the 3d and 4th Assembly districts of Queens and also in the 1st Congressional District. Whether the recount can be held at one central point, thus necessitating the carrying of ballot boxes out of two of the counties, is yet to be determined.

Both nominees are millionaires.

TRAVIS TO KEEP WENDEL

Long Service in Controller's Office Saves Place for Deputy.

Eugene M. Travis, Controller-elect, said yesterday the only thing he had decided about his staff was that he would retain James A. Wendel, of Albany, as third deputy. He has been in the Controller's office for about twenty years, and, although a Republican, was retained by Controller Sohmer.

"I have not decided on any of the other places," said Mr. Travis. "I am going away for a few days' rest, and when I get back will take up the organization of my staff."

Returns in the Republican districts in New York County were far from satisfactory to the leaders. The Democratic districts made a far better showing relatively. The 6th, which is on the East Side, and sandwiched in between two heavily Democratic districts, did better than any other district in the city. It was the only one in the county to give a plurality for Wadsworth and Justice Chase.

MARKS DENIES JOB AID

Says He Did Not Appoint Nephew to City Place.

Borough President Marcus M. Marks of Manhattan last night denied that he had appointed his nephew to fill the place made vacant by the promotion of Harold C. Todd, former supervising inspector of buildings. Mr. Marks asserted that he had made no family appointments of any kind during his period of office.

George McAneny, President of the Board of Aldermen, in a letter to The Tribune, disclaims knowledge of an appointee named Goldsmith, who had been said to be a relative of Mrs. McAneny. Neither Mrs. McAneny nor himself, wrote President McAneny, had ever heard of Goldsmith.

PREDICTS WHITMAN, 1916

Booker Washington Says Victory Is Presage of Presidency.

Booker T. Washington will support Governor-elect Charles S. Whitman as President, according to a letter received from the negro educator at the office of the District Attorney yesterday. The letter read:

"Dear Mr. Whitman: Please permit me to congratulate you most heartily on your great and deserving victory. It is a matter of the greatest satisfaction to all of your numerous friends.

"This victory, in my opinion, is but a preparation for a much longer promotion, and I want to do my part in bringing about such promotion.

"Yours truly,"

"BOOKER T. WASHINGTON."

A Wonder Sale of Dresses at $4.98 That Should Be Priced at $8.00

$18.75 to $25.00 Dresses at $14.98

IN SOME RESPECTS THIS IS THE RECORD SALE of a truly phenomenal season of underpricing. The prolonged unseasonable weather and other things have conspired to make this a nervous season for makers and we have secured many remarkable collections of Dresses at simply marvelous prices—adding to them selections from our own stock—and offering them all in a sale that will bring another great crowd here Monday.

At $14.98—A number of models in broadcloths, serges, charmeuse and velvets, serge and satin combinations. We illustrate two of these Dresses. One a broadcloth model on straight lines, fur trimmed collar—new loose panel back, circular skirt. Colors, Burgundy, green and black. The other is a combination of charmeuse and French serge—vest and collar white bengaline. Waist has surplice in front, trimmed with braid medallions, long tunic of serge, with underskirt of charmeuse. Back of waist and tunic box plaited. Navy, brown and black.

At $4.98—FOUR DISTINCT MODELS that are simply wonderful value—really the record value of the season in little priced Dresses. One model is of diagonal serge, straight lines, fastened on left side with jet buttons—collar and cuffs of white pique—belt of serge. Another is made of basket cloth with girdle of black silk—white pique collar. Third is of diagonal serge, normal waistline and natty collar of Roman stripe silk—waist and sleeves trimmed with Roman stripe silk. There is a diagonal serge model with natural linen collar and cuffs.

Sizes 32 to 44. None C. O. D. or on approval.

Second floor, Fulton street, Central Building.

Women's $32.50 Fur Trimmed Suits, $21.50

200 Sacrificed by a Maker

WE DOUBT IF THERE EVER WAS SUCH VALUE BEFORE at the very height of the season. Truth is that the backward season compelled one of the makers, who sells to us thousands of dollars' worth of garments, to turn some of his stylish stock into cash immediately. The Suits were made to order for delivery now and they could not be more stylish, in more pleasing designs, more attractive. We simply jumped at the chance to get them at a price that would enable us to share such splendid piece of luck with you.

THERE ARE THREE DISTINCT STYLES, two of which are pictured here. Natty, short coat effects, every detail stylish, trimmed with fur. The materials are fine broadcloths and velveteens—the skirts are yoke style or tunic. Colors, black, navy, brown and green.

All sizes from 32 to 44 bust measure. Some of these styles are particularly suitable for petite women. None sent C. O. D. or on approval.

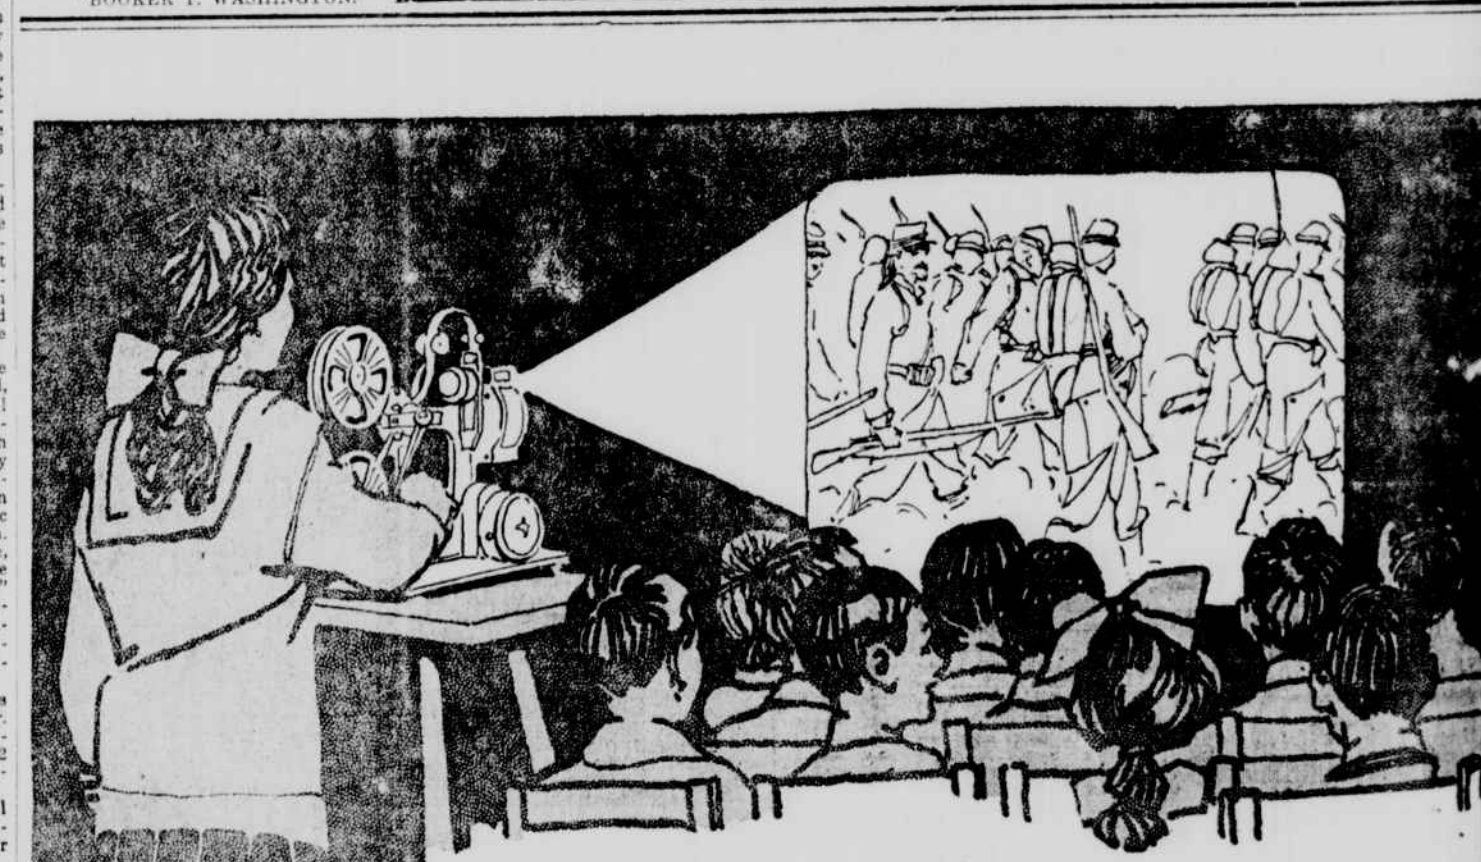

Second floor, Livingston street, Central Building.

Dress, $11.98

Suit, $21.50

Pathescope Film Service

THE FIRST question asked by people who mean to buy the wonderful Pathescope motion picture machine for school and home is this: "How can I get new films?"

Let us answer that question for every one.

The Pathescope is made by Pathe Freres, the largest manufacturer of motion pictures and motion picture machinery in the world. This concern has operating stations in all parts of the world. Literally everything of real interest, all over the world, is reproduced by motion picture. This wonderful service is at the disposal of Pathescope owners. New films are added daily. Every subject is covered; reconstructed history, travel, great events, science, industry, art, wild animals, the daily lives of strange people, war scenes.

Your old films can be exchanged as often as you like for a small charge. Every night of the year you can have your own motion picture show at home.

The educational value of the Pathescope must be admitted. Before long a school will no more be without a Pathescope than without a blackboard.

Recognizing this, The New York Tribune has purchased twenty Pathescopes to be given to twenty New York City schools as prizes in its voting contest.

Send for full particulars and prices and for catalog of Pathescope films
